

How do I get registered?

Please provide your private email address when you check in, or you may login in with your personal information. Please note, at the current time, AOL addresses cannot routinely be used.

1. You may have one account for your family, as long as those members can share important information. It is more confidential to have one unique email to each account.
2. There must be a primary account holder who will authorize the others on the account (such as a parent and young children).

What else should I know?

Although this is not mandatory, it provides an additional way to improve communication in the practice. It also gives you the opportunity to access patient education resources and have real time updates on the operation of the practice. You may still access patient care in the usual manner by calling the office.

How to Use the Site

You can use the website as a source of information, patient education or information on the practice.

Lab Results

You can also use the PHR Section under “Patient Login” to access your information contained in the medical record. For instance, when your labs are reviewed by the doctor, you can receive an email with a link allowing you to view them and comments on them.

Appointments

You can check to see when your appointment time is if you forget, or make sure you have a follow up appointment scheduled.

Communicate securely with your physician

Send and receive messages to the doctor or nurse. These are part of the portal, and are secure and HIPAA compliant.

This is improve communication, but NOT to be a source of emergency care....

Please remember to read the agreement prior to signing up.... If you have a medical emergency, then you need to call 911, or access the nearest emergency room.

We love our patients! Give us your feedback on the website too!
